

260 Abstract:

 A method and apparatus to reconfigure battery systems for r/c model vehicles that permit the rapid reconfiguration of battery cells to connect to many different vehicle systems with various serial and parallel configurations employing standard r/c battery connectors 265 according to the user's present needs. In one instance of the application individual battery cells can independently be discharged and/or recharged.